Wwe 2k17 universe mode draft

Edit Comment Sharing Universe Mode nL WWE 2K17 is a complete (or fairly complete) reboot of the brand, with basically all the fashion elements of the old universe dropped in favor of a fresh start. Universe 2K17 mode features three brands: WWE, WCW and ECW. However, it went on hiatus after the first week of episodes, as the three brands turned out to be too many to commit to, combined with the boring 2K17 AI to watch. 2K17 Draft Event[edit | edit source] Rules[edit | edit source] The main draft consists of fifteen rounds; draft picks for WWE, WCW, and ECW were announced by Duel, Jericho, and Johnny, respectively, on behalf of the general manager. The selection sequence is determined by rando as ECW, then WCW, then WWE, which is completely legit. During this major draft, each brand is required to compile a total of ten male and five female Superstars. The additional draft will consist of twenty rounds, with the draft pick set by rando. 60 draft picks, male or female, will be assigned from the 77 Superstars available. Choosing one Superstar also gives your brand each of their unique gimmick to use as well (such as Foley's Three Faces, different Undertaker and Sting eras, etc.). You live by rando, you die by rando. When you start a new WWE Universe file, you're given a set number of weeks before your next PPV event. Before that, you had different RAW and SmackDown showing that you can play to develop competitions, change hands on championships, and more. Everything that happens in this show can be customized. Calander shows every show and PPV for every month of the year, lasting from April to March. When you view Calander, you can change the cards and details about each show and the match that happens. The My Universe section displays all the important statistics and events of completed matches in your WWE Universe files. The Stories option allows you to change specific details for events that can occur throughout the Universe Mode year. You can set competition to happen automatically, Superstar Injuries, changes in audience reaction from show to event, and more. Special events such as Undertaker's Wrestlemania Rivalry, and competitions for the Royal Rumble and Survivor Series can be set ON/OFF or made to be triggered randomly throughout the WWE year. Everything about WWE live shows can be customized for each of your WWE Universe events. Video intros, pyro effects, and camera focus can be tweaked to your liking. This was all done before starting each event on the WWE Universe menu at the beginning of the WWE year. It also includes match cards for each RAW, SmackDown, and PPV during the week. When the event has started, you can see all the matches you've set up on the card. You can play simulates a match on the card during the show. However, one important thing is that you need to proceed through the match card in that order of it Matches that get Superstars involved in open competition will be marked with an R chart next to their name. Competition can be arranged and customized on the menu before each show. There's a surprise waiting for you to play through the Universe. You will never know how a Superstar will react to losing his match, how desperate a Superstar is to win that coveted championship, what a superstar will do when faced with his hated rival and so on. Here we find Rusev celebrating his victory against Sheamus and being confronted by Roman Reigns afterwards in a staredown over the WWE United States Championship. The storyline between the rivals will develop constantly in the Universe, featuring cutscenes during their matches. Our talented mocap and animation team have done an amazing job updating most of our cutscenes, so look forward to seeing a lot of new content in your play-through. There's more to just a match in a show, though. Promos are also part of the Universe, where Superstars can speak their minds to the crowd or put verbal blows on their rivals. We've also listened to your feedback from last year, and we've added support for Run-Ins in WWE 2K17, allowing you to choose which matches you want to happen and even when in matches you want run-ins to happen. Be careful that you are not the only one making choices; You never know when Superstar might take the matter into his own hands! Once you've wrapped up all the show matches, let's go back to the show menu, where we can dig out some more details. Access the News option to recapture exciting moments from the show or catch up on dramatic events between rivals you might miss in a simulated match. Enter the Championship menu to see the show's prestigious titles and where each Superstar ranks for his shot at gold. Superstars and Teams are where you'll find ratings, statistics, and news of your event competitors. These menus give you info that is only related to the event you are living in, which I think helps emphasize brand identity by removing the clutter of other events. It wouldn't be Universe Mode without all its customizations! This is the part that some of the most in-depth players think in fashion and where they can completely customize their Universe experience the way they want by using our Creation Suite. I haven't touched much on the adjustments in the walkthrough above, and you probably haven't seen much on the screen shown, but don't worry – everything is still there. There is no main Edit Universe option anymore; instead, you will be Edit option available on the screen where you can customize something. The idea behind this is that we don't need a separate View Superstars and Edit Superstars menu, for example. If you see something you want to change, you don't have to leave that menu to do it. If I see Superstar and I want to customize something about one of them, I need to be able to go into edit edit mode From there. Superstars can be transformed in a variety of ways: their skills, attributes and personality can all be customized. You can choose their enemies and allies, what championships they play, which gives them the right to compete and how the crowd responds to them Teams can be customized, whether you add or remove members to an existing team or create your own creation team. Why not add Kane to the Wyatt Family and show what would have happened if he had become a convert? Or you could choose your preferred Superstar to join Finn and actually set up the Balor Club. The championship will show you which superstar has which title and lets you edit the rankings if you want. Access Shows and changes specific shows if you want to change which championships are displayed in them. You can also change the Superstar competing on the show, how many matches it runs and even its presentation. The WWE draft between Raw and SmackDown was a big deal, but unfortunately it happened too late in our development to get that change to WWE 2K17. However, our Creation Suite and Creative Community will allow you to have your Universe lined up to fit the rebrand. I will guide you through several ways you can make this change: 1. Create a new universe to save. I don't want to disturb my first universe that's already underway, so I'm going to make a new stash that we want to adjust. 2. Assign Superstar to SmackDown. We were able to get most of the Superstars assigned to their composed shows, but some were on the air at the time, and I wasn't sure where they were going to end up. Let's head to My Universe > Superstars and highlight Heath Slater. Pressing Y/Triangle enters Edit Mode for Heath Slater. Choosing an Affiliated Show lets us decide which shows he or she will participate in. Let's uncheck Raw and check SmackDown, and Slater is ready to go. I'll also make sure we have other Superstars in the blue brand, like Nikki Bella. 3. Set a new Championship for Raw. One of my favorite parts about brand splits is the new championship. I went through our Custom Championship to see how close I could be to recreating a new title with options right out of the box, and it turned out pretty close! With my title ready, I'll go into My Universe > Show and choose Raw. I'm going to trade the WWE World Heavyweight Championship for our own Universal Championship and hand it over to Kevin Owens. I'm going to go to SmackDown and remove the Tag Team title and the Women's Championship, but I'm not going to add a new title yet. I thought it would be nice to recreate those title matches in our own PPV Backlash to see who is as the new champion. 4. Create a custom PPV. Let's set up our exclusive SmackDown PPV. I'll go to Calendar, press Y/Triangle to enter Edit Mode and select Blank Sunday for our Counterattack. The important thing we wanted was to set our Show Host to SmackDown. PPV Match Theme determines what type of match we will hope, which we will leave alone because I want to adjust the match to be close to the Backlash match card. Select Details takes us to Custom Shows, where we can edit all kinds of new details in the new Custom Shows menu in the Creation Suite. I have my Backlash logo imported through Community Creations through our Logo Importer, so we're almost done organizing everything. 5. Adjust the match. With my BACKLASH PPV setting, I'll exit Edit Mode and select Backlash in Calendar to simulate directly to it. I can start adjusting my match by selecting a matching card and selecting Edit Show. Our first match was for the SmackDown Women's Championship. I will highlight the first game, press RB/R1 to Edit and select Adjust Match because we changed the type of match completely. From there, I chose 6-Man > Battle Royal and chose smackdown women's division competitors. For the finishing touches, I'll open Match Options and choose Title Match, putting our SmackDown Women's Championship on the line. The process is similar to arranging the rest of our matches, and then my custom PPV is ready to go! 6. Finishing Touches. I have completed my PPV and I have my new SmackDown champion, so it is time to set a new title for SmackDown. Using the same process as we did with Raw, we'll go into My Universe > Shows > SmackDown and assign our SmackDown Tag Team and SmackDown Women's Championship to the show so that superstars in the big blue can compete for this title in future PPV.
